FEARLESSLY SCRAPPY

PITCH

The Deadpan Snarker | Witty Tomboy

Kyla likes to say "If Cheri O'Teri and Andrea Martin had a comedy love-child - that would be me." Clearly, Kyla's forte is comedy. Plucky and sarcastic, she excels in roles where perfectly timed deadpan is necessary - think Kristen Bell on The Good Place or Kaitlin Olson on Its Always Sunny. Her comic sensibilities are also well-suited to the "brainy brunette" who is comfortable as "one of the guys" a la Sandra Bullock in Miss Congeniality, Mila Kunis in Forgetting Sarah Marshall and Julia Louis Dreyfus on Seinfeld.

Not one to discriminate - Kyla is able to navigate easily between witty language-based comedy that requires perfect timing like on Parks and Rec to more "low-brow" humor that requires the confidence to perform in "embarrassing situations" (check out her self-produced music video This Is Why I Squat). Ultimately she has that rare knack for unique "only she could make that funny" comic delivery akin to Jennifer Aniston and Annie Murphy.

ABOUT

Kyla Schoer is best known for her love of wordplay, spirited silliness and chutzpah. Hailing from the sassy and saucy streets of New York City - which explains her sometimes savage sensibilities.

Notable credits include a hilariously frightening role in Scroll Wheel of Time, an appearance opposite Yehuda Levi in Very Important Person (Ish Hashuv Meod) and recurring role 'Jessica Greenberg' in Adversity opposite Enrico Colantoni. Her recent stage work includes various roles at the Jewish Women's Theater of Los Angeles and a turn as Henriette in Parson's Nose Theater's acclaimed production of Moliere's Too Learned Ladies.

With her writing partner, she is currently in development on a half hour comedy pilot in conjunction with Level 1 Entertainment. Classically trained, Kyla earned her BFA in theater from the Hartt School and when she's not making people laugh she can usually be found in the produce section feeding her avocado addiction.
